

4.3.2Student - Computer ratio (Data for the latest completed academic year).*Preamble

MITADTU ensures that students have access to adequate computing resources across all departments. The student-computer ratio reflects the institution's commitment to integrating technology into the learning process. Through careful allocation and issuance of computers to various departments, supported by documented stock registers and purchase records, MITADTU maintains a sufficient supply of computers for student use. The details below outline the distribution of computers, highlighting the institution's dedication to providing students with the technological tools necessary for academic success.
